AMOUNT OF STOCK AND SUPPLIES ON THE FARM.

Two horses, 11 cows, 1 yearling heifer, 2 calves, 3 hogs, 45 hens, 21 tons of hay, $5\frac{1}{2}$ bushels beans, 300 pounds ground feed, 60 bushels oats, 90 gallons vinegar, 80 gallons cider, 400 pounds pork, $\frac{1}{3}$ barrel soft soap, 40 pounds lard, $7\frac{1}{2}$ pounds butter, 6 pounds coffee, $1\frac{1}{3}$ barrels flour, 3 pounds tea, 15 pounds sugar, 50 bars soap, 15 bushels potatoes, $20\frac{3}{4}$ tons ice, 20 cords fitted wood, and vegetables enough for family use.

Mr. Dennis Edwards, Agent on the farm, has managed it very successfully, and has demonstrated the fact that farming can be made to pay. We attribute his success to his industry, earnest work, and close attention to business. He did an unusual amount of work last fall in plowing, applying dressing, and clearing bushes from the field and pasture.

Mrs. Edwards has performed her duties prudently and faithfully, and has taken good care of the poor. She is a remarkable housekeeper, considering the dilapidated condition of the old house, every part being clean from the cellar to the attic.

There are but two paupers on the farm. Dennis Edwards and wife have been employed to take charge of the farm the ensuing year.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Mrs. Lizzie M. Harmon has been self-supporting until the first of January, when she called for aid, and we sent her $15. She will probably want but little more from the town, as her children are doing considerable towards her support.

Mrs. Charlotte Hurd was taken sick at the house of Ozias M. Lunt, and we were notified to take charge of her, which we did at a cost of $22.25. After a thorough investigation we were convinced that she had a derivative settlement in the town of Starks; therefore a notice was sent to that town, and we have received no denial.

Mr. William Verrill was taken sick the first of the winter and called for help. Provisions have been furnished him to the amount of $11.88, and medical attendance to the amount of $30. He died February 26th, and the town was notified to take charge of the preparations for the funeral and burial, which was done at an expense of $33. The bills for provisions and funeral expenses have not been paid.

In consideration of the condition of J. A. Verrill, on demand of Lafayette Tenney and wife it was thought advisable to increase their compensation to $1.50 per week for his board, care, and clothes.

Thomas J. Brackett still remains at the Insane Hospital in a very insane condition, with no hope of improvement.

We were notified last June by Mr. Elbridge Titcomb that his son, E. G. Titcomb, was insane. The case was investigated and an examination made by two physicians, who pronounced him insane ; therefore he was committed to the Insane Hospital, where he now remains. It is a very sad case—a bright, active, well-educated man, yet not competent to care for himself on account of insanity.

By vote of the town at the last annual meeting the building of the Ricker Road was left in the hands of the Selectmen, with authority to build the coming season if acceptable arrangements could be made. We failed to make any arrangements which in our judgment would be for the interest of the town, but expect to show to the town at the next annual meeting the actual expense of constructing the road during the coming season ; also the difference of cost, if any, if built before June 20th, as desired by the Messrs. Rickers.

The road bills have been unusually large during the past year, on account of the severe rains in summer and drifting snows in winter, necessitating a great amount of labor to keep the roads in a suitable condition for public travel.

Respectfully submitted,

J. W. TRUE,

J. M. THOMPSON,

SCHOOL No. 1—LOWER CORNER.

This school has been under the care of Miss Lilla M. Scales during the entire school year. Miss Scales has had much successful experience with village and difficult schools, and is perfectly at home in the school-room; her order and discipline were excellent, and all worked together in good harmony during each term, and the work accomplished was very satisfactory. This teacher awakened quite an interest in the minds of her pupils for Mineralogy, and during the Summer and Fall Terms they collected many good specimens and arranged them nicely upon the shelves which they caused to be put up in a corner of their school-room.

SCHOOL No. 2—UPPER CORNER.

For four successive terms Miss Jillie H. Mayhew has taught this school and with the best success. The closing examination showed that the pupils had been well instructed, and it was gratifying to see their readiness to answer questions, and the good understanding they seemed to have of what had been their school work. Their mental drill in Arithmetic was excellent, and it was pleasing to see how well those young minds could take hold of problems and analyze them. Miss Mayhew is an excellent teacher, and her good and kind instructions will be long remembered.

SCHOOL No. 3—BALD HILL.

Miss Mary D. Pollard, teacher. This is one of our best schools, and it has been very gratifying during each term to visit it, and to see the good feeling and homelike appearance of this school. The drill which these scholars received was very thorough, and the refined taste which the teacher and pupils showed by adorning their pleasant and well kept school-room with fine pictures, beautiful flowers and a good organ to aid them in their singing exercises, speaks well for all. Miss Pollard is an energetic teacher, fully up with the times, and determined to make a success of whatever she undertakes, and her pupils seemed to partake of the same spirit which made this school a successful one.

SCHOOL No. 4—COBB'S BRIDGE.

Miss Clara I. Dyer taught the Summer Term. She has fine teaching abilities, and her methods of developing principles, showing reasons, and analyzing are excellent, but her pupils did not take hold with quite so much appreciation and determination as we desired to see.

The Fall Term was taught by Miss Mabel A. Foss; who, with her excellent qualifications, good teaching abilities, energy, and activity, we felt sure would make her school successful and profitable.

The Winter Term was under the instruction of Miss Luetta M. Wescott, who taught a very excellent school, giving to her scholars a very practical drill. We were pleased to see so many large scholars attending this school, some of them being quite well advanced in their studies.

SCHOOL No. 5—BEAR BROOK.

This school has been under the care of Miss Hattie J. Loring during the year. Miss Loring is a very able and faithful teacher, who labors for the permanent good of her pupils. Her method of instruction is such as will help the reasoning faculties and lead the young minds along so as to understand principles and not make superficial and mechanical scholars. The government and discipline of this school were excellent, and the first and last examination presented a pleasing contrast.

SCHOOL No. 6—HARRIS HILL.

Mrs. Ida Q. Moulton, teacher in summer. She found it somewhat difficult at first to establish that good order and quietness which she felt to be very necessary, but she succeeded finely in bringing about the desired result, and made her school an excellent one.

The Fall school was taught by Miss Rosa E. Keniston, who is a thorough disciplinarian, and very systematic and correct in all her school work; her pupils showed that they had been well instructed, and had accomplished very satisfactory results.

The commencement of the Winter school was delayed three weeks on account of scarlet fever being in the district, and then but few of the scholars attended for the first two weeks, which made it somewhat discouraging for the teacher, Miss Grace E. Curtis. The school rallied under Miss Curtis's well-directed efforts and accomplished a good amount of school work.

SCHOOL No. 7—POND.

This school, in summer, was taught by Miss Mary L. Bickford, who found her scholars to be restless and unable at first to settle down to quiet study, but she gradually brought them into better condition to study and made decided improvement in the appearance of the school, and made it profitable to all.

The Fall and Winter Terms were taught by Miss Mary E. Jordan, who, being a good disciplinarian and worker, seemed to take the school at the point where Miss Bickford left it and to carry it on in a steady course of improvement, so that at our last visit the order and appearance of the school were excellent, and good improvement in everything was very noticeable.

SCHOOL No. 8—WEBBER.

This is one of our best and most agreeable schools. It has been a pleasure to visit it during each term and notice the good feeling and co-operation on the part of teacher and scholars. Miss Luetta M. Wescott was teacher in summer and fall, also the previous winter, and she gave her pupils good, thorough instruction, and they made satisfactory progress in all their studies. Miss Wescott left the school in good condition for her successor, Miss Lillian S. Mallett, who is a teacher well fitted to please and to give satisfaction. She quickly saw the good condition of her school and onward became her motto, and under her excellent instruction the school was very satisfactory to all.

SCHOOL No. 9—SHAKER'S.

It is the custom of this school to have only a Summer and Winter Term, the latter being sixteen weeks. Miss Ada S. Cummings has had charge of this school for some years, and she has ably and faithfully performed a teacher's duties. Each examination indicated a good degree of interest on the part of the pupils. The exercises in reading, speaking, original composition, and singing were very creditable to the school. At the last examination the classes in Civil Government, Colburn's Mental Arithmetic, and Physiology showed a very excellent knowledge of these branches, and the many difficult questions which they answered with great promptness would puzzle many older minds. Miss Cummings is deserving of much credit for her practical and thorough instruction.

SCHOOL No. 11—MEADOW BROOK.

Miss Helen L. Nevins, teacher. This is a very small school, but the scholars are quite well advanced and disposed to work. It requires on the part of the teacher much patience, self-control, and will power to teach successfully so small a school and keep it from becoming dull and monotonous. Miss Nevins carefully guarded against this and made her school pleasant and profitable to all. This school was fortunate in having the services of so able and faithful a teacher as Miss Nevins.

SCHOOL No. 12—PENNEY ROAD.

This is another very small school, and the Summer Term was taught by Miss Mabel A. Foss, who succeeded well in keeping her pupils interested in their work and making her school a success.

The Fall Term was in charge of Miss Julia A. Curtis, who bids fair to become an excellent teacher. Her pupils were much interested in their school work and made very commendable progress.

The Winter school was under the instruction of Miss Mary L. Bickford, who is one of our well known and tried teachers. Her pupils were much interested in their work and accomplished much. Miss Bickford needs no commendations, for she has taught more terms of school in town than any other resident teacher now in the teacher's ranks.

SCHOOL No. 13—BICKFORD'S.

The Summer school was under the able and faithful instruction of Miss Mary E. Jordan.

The Fall Term was taught by Miss Hattie E. True, who gained the love of her pupils by her kind and mild discipline. Her pupils were quite young and made commendable progress.

Miss Carrie M. Gilman was teacher for the Winter school. A number of large scholars attended during this term, which added much to the interest of this school, and Miss Gilman made it pleasant and profitable to all.

The past year has been one of much prosperity to our schools. Nearly all the teachers have been those who have fitted themselves in the best schools of our State and other States for teaching, and have had experience as teachers. The government and discipline, with one or two exceptions, have been of a high order. Whispering was abolished from about every school. The teachers have made their instruction practical by supplementing text-books. Colburn's Improved Mental Arithmetic has been put into every school-room, and if faithfully used will make our scholars much quicker, more practical and independent thinkers. Grammar has been taught more practically by writing upon the blackboard and paper, and then analyzing and criticising. A new interest has been awakened in the study of Physiology by the addition of Yaggy's Anatomical Study. Our school-rooms have been well cared for, and not injured as some of them have been in previous years. Outside painting has been done upon the Shaker's, Bickfords's, and Cobb's Bridge school-houses. Inside painting and repairing has been done in Bald Hill, Lower Corner, and Meadow Brook school-rooms. The fence around Bear Brook school-house has been painted. A fine crystal blackboard has been put into the Shaker school-room, and an excellent set of Outline Maps, Globe, etc., into the Lower Corner school-room. Some general repairs and painting will be necessary the coming year, and a small appropriation should be continued. Our excellent school-houses speak well for our town, and should be the just pride of every citizen. In order that our schools may progress, it will be necessary to employ teachers who have fitted themselves in our best training schools, and have proved to be successful and progressive.

I think it would be well to add to our graduating course and thus hold our advanced scholars in the schools one or even two years longer, or else establish a high school. It has been a sad mistake for some of our graduates that they graduated as early as they did, for they have had no opportunity to attend school since.

We are glad that the Misses Stevens have opened a boarding school at the Lower Corner, and hope it will be liberally patronized by the many in town who desire to attend a school of this kind but do not feel financially able to attend schools out of town.

In closing, I would thank the teachers for their faithful work and co-operation in carrying out such plans as seemed to be for the good of the schools, also the pupils for their kind and courteous attentions.

GEORGE B. PIERCE,

Supervisor of Schools.
